Item 8.01. Other Events

Grand Canyon Education, Inc. (the “Company”) operates Grand Canyon University (“GCU”), a comprehensive regionally accredited university that offers over 225 graduate and undergraduate degree programs, emphases and certificates across nine colleges both online and on ground at our over 275 acre campus in Phoenix, Arizona. GCU is accredited by The Higher Learning Commission (the “HLC”).

Higher Learning Commission Approval of Change of Control Application

On March 5, 2018, the HLC notified the Company that it had approved the change of control application filed by GCU in connection with its proposed transaction (the “Proposed Transaction”) with Gazelle University, an Arizona non-profit corporation (“New GCU”). The approval is subject to customary conditions, including that there be no changes prior to the closing of the Proposed Transaction in the material terms of the transaction as presented in the application and that New GCU host an HLC evaluation within six months following closing. The Company expects to move toward execution and delivery of definitive documents with New GCU, with closing of the Proposed Transaction to occur upon satisfaction of any closing conditions stated therein.

For additional information about the Proposed Transaction, please see our Current Report on Form 8-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission on February 26, 2018.

On March 6, 2018, the Company issued a press release announcing the HLC’s approval of its application with respect to the Proposed Transaction. A copy of the press release is attached hereto as Exhibit 99.1.

Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements

This Current Report on Form 8-K contains “forward-looking statements,” including statements relating to the proposed transaction discussed above. Words such as “may,” “should,” “could,” “would,” “predicts,” “potential,” “continue,” “expects,” “anticipates,” “future,” “intends,” “plans,” “believes,” “estimates” and similar expressions, as well as statements in future tense, identify forward-looking statements. Forward-looking statements are based on information available at the time those statements are made or management’s good faith belief as of that time with respect to future events, and are subject to risks and uncertainties that could cause actual events to differ materially from those expressed in or suggested by the forward-looking statements. Important factors that could cause such differences include, but are not limited to: the failure of the Proposed Transaction to be approved by any of our regulators or accreditors or to satisfy any conditions set forth in any such approvals; the failure of the Company and New GCU to reach agreement on key terms of the Proposed Transaction and to execute definitive agreements; the possibility that any or all of the various conditions to the consummation of the Proposed Transaction that may be set forth in definitive agreements may not be satisfied or waived, including the failure to receive any required regulatory approvals from any applicable governmental entities (or any conditions, limitations or restrictions placed on such approvals); the occurrence of any event, change or other circumstance that could give rise to the termination of any definitive agreement once executed; the effect of the announcement or pendency of the Proposed Transaction on the Company’s ability to retain and hire key personnel or its operating results and business generally; risks related to diverting management’s attention from the Company’s ongoing business operations; the risk that stockholder litigation in connection with the Proposed Transaction may result in significant costs of defense, indemnification and liability; and other factors discussed in the Company’s reports on file with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Factors or events that could affect the transactions contemplated herein or cause the Company’s actual results to differ may emerge from time to time, and it is not possible for the Company to predict all of them. The Company undertakes no obligation to publicly update or revise any forward-looking statement, whether as a result of new information, future developments or otherwise, except as may be required by any applicable securities laws.

HIGHER LEARNING COMMISSION APPROVES GRAND CANYON UNIVERSITY PROPOSAL
Decision is Major Step in Process to Return GCU to its Non-Profit Roots

PHOENIX (March 6, 2018) – The Higher Learning Commission has approved Grand Canyon University’s application to become a non-profit institution — a major step in the process to return the University to its historical roots.

“We appreciate the Higher Learning Commission’s due diligence in thoroughly examining our proposal,” said GCU President Brian Mueller. “This is consistent with GCU’s history and puts us on a level playing field with other traditional universities with regard to tax status and, among other things, the ability to accept philanthropic contributions, pursue research grant opportunities, and participate in NCAA governance.”

As part of the transition, GCE will sell certain academic-related assets to a non-profit entity that will carry the Grand Canyon University name. Following the sale, GCE will operate as a third-party provider of educational and related services to GCU and potentially, in the future, to other universities. The structure is similar to that at hundreds of non-profit universities in the country that outsource services to third-party providers.

“HLC approval is the major step in this process,” Mueller said. “We’re now working toward finishing up the final details that will allow us to complete the transition by the end of the second quarter of 2018.”

Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements

This release contains “forward-looking statements,” including statements relating to the proposed transaction discussed above. Words such as “may,” “should,” “could,” “would,” “predicts,” “potential,” “continue,” “expects,” “anticipates,” “future,” “intends,” “plans,” “believes,” “estimates” and similar expressions, as well as statements in future tense, identify forward-looking statements. Forward-looking statements are based on information available at the time those statements are made or management’s good faith belief as of that time with respect to future events, and are subject to risks and uncertainties that could cause actual events to differ materially from those expressed in or suggested by the forward-looking statements. Important factors that could cause such differences include, but are not limited to: the failure of the proposed transaction to be approved by any of our regulators or accreditors or to satisfy any conditions set forth in any such approvals; the failure of the GCE and GCU to reach agreement on key terms of the proposed transaction and to execute definitive agreements; the possibility that any or all of the various conditions to the consummation of the proposed transaction that may be set forth in definitive agreements may not be satisfied or waived, including the failure to receive any required regulatory approvals from any applicable governmental entities (or any conditions, limitations or restrictions placed on such approvals); the occurrence of any event, change or other circumstance that could give rise to the termination of any definitive agreement once executed; the effect of the announcement or pendency of the proposed transaction on our ability to retain and hire key personnel or operating results and business generally; risks related to diverting management’s attention from ongoing business operations; the risk that stockholder litigation in connection with the proposed transaction may result in significant costs of defense, indemnification and liability; and other factors discussed in the GCE’s reports on file with the Securities and Exchange

Commission. Factors or events that could affect the transactions contemplated herein or cause actual results to differ may emerge from time to time, and it is not possible to predict all of them. We undertake no obligation to publicly update or revise any forward-looking statement, whether as a result of new information, future developments or otherwise, except as may be required by any applicable securities laws.
